An amateur production by arrangement with Samuel French Ltd.

"We all marry the wrong people" states Edward; certainly his daughters' relationships give that impression. But what of Edward's marriage to Emma? Are they really trying to kill each other as their daughters suspect?

Set over a family weekend to celebrate Edward and Emma's wedding anniversary, Ayckbourn takes a wry, witty and entertaining look at the perils and pitfalls of marriage and family relationships and asks the question "What if?"
What if it had all been a bit different?

Merrow Dramatic Society has brought many well-received comedies to The Electric Theatre and is delighted to return with this rarely-performed Ayckbourn play. Billed as the one that got away, Ayckbourn's early comedy Family Circles is as hilarious, intelligent and theatrically daring as any of his better-known works.

Will it make you wonder, "What if...?"
